Student

Department of di Oriental languages and Civilisations at Sapienza University

I have a bachelors degree in the Department of Oriental Languages and Civilizations at Sapienza, University of Rome, attended from 2018 to 2021, where I have studied Arabic language and culture.

Currently, I am attending the masters course at the same faculty.

Specifically, I am attending International Relations in the Arab context lectures managed by Prof. Laura Guazzone

During the academic years I actively participated in many seminars proposed in Italian and English language concerning the Middle East and addressed in a historical and political key, like the TOMIDEAST Summer School.

I also did some internships on Chinese language and culture at the Confucius Institute in Rome.
